DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by either one of Housiaux or Ochiai.

See especially Figure 1 of Housiaux and Figure 1 of Ochiai.

3. Claims 1-4 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Abplanalp.

See especially Figures 1 and 2.

4. Claims 1-6 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Stanko.

See especially Figures 1 and 3.

5. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Cabeza.

See especially Figure 1.

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cabeza. Cabeza discloses substantially all claimed elements, including an aircraft tire with rotating means having an increased resistance to wind when located at a lowermost portion of the tire, where the rotating means comprise plural rows of indents formed on the sidewall of the tire. Cabeza fails to show the indents of radially inward rows being smaller than outer rows. Without any evidence of unexpected results, to have smaller indents on an inward row is considered to have been an obvious and unpatentable engineering and design choice. It would be logical and obvious for an engineer to form smaller indents on inner rows since there is less surface area on an inner row than an outer row, so smaller indents would provide corresponding surface coverage to a matching number of indents on an outer row.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Hursh is cited as being of interest since it discloses an aircraft tire with rotation means.
